

April 25, 2014

HUFF POST TRAVEL

21 Travel Experiences You Must Have Once (And Only Once)

The Huffington Post | by Suzy Strutner

Posted: 04/25/2014 8:21 am EDT | Updated: 04/25/2014 7:59 am EDT

A few epic places on this Earth deserve a permanent, recurring role on your lifetime to-do list. Then there are overhyped places you should never, ever waste your time on in the first place.

Finally, there's a hybrid of the two: a "one and done" travel experience so epic and so awesome and so life-altering, it really only needs to be completed once. After that, you're either too high on adrenaline or too full of food or too sick of tourists to EVER do it again.

Allow us to show you what we mean.

10. Stay at The Ranch at Live Oak in Malibu, California

A week of "luxury bootcamp" at one of the best spas in the world entails group yoga, private massages, organic meals and queen-size beds. By the end you'll be so fit (and so broke!), you won't need a return trip for years. At least Malibu sunsets come free of charge.

Albert Valles via Getty Images